

National Park Service Regulations

The National Park Service carries out its responsibilities in parks and programs under the authority of Federal laws, regulations, and Executive Orders, and in accord with policies established by the Director of the National Park Service and the Secretary of the Interior.

Regulations published in Chapter 1 of Title 36 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), are mechanisms used by the National Park Service to preserve and protect the natural and cultural resources of the park, manage visitor use, provide for visitor safety, and protect property within the park. These regulations are applicable to all areas of the national park system except for Part 7 which contains special regulations for specific areas of the National Parks system (excluding Alaska) and Part 13 which contains special regulations specific to National Park System units in Alaska.

Some of the regulations included in 36 CFR grant discretionary authority to develop local rules and regulations through the park Superintendent's Compendium, which is the summary of park specific rules and regulations that serves as public notice, identifies areas closed for public use, provides a list of activities requiring either a special use permit or reservation, and elaborates on public use and resource protection regulations pertaining specifically to the administration of the park. The Superintendent's Compendium does not repeat regulations found in 36 CFR and other United States Code and CFR Titles, which are enforced without further elaboration at the park. The Superintendent's Compendium is updated annually and may be found on individual park NPS.gov websites.

The special provisions established in 36 CFR Part 13 are specific to National Park System Units in Alaska and may supersede certain regulations established in certain parts of 36 CFR. Additionally, special provisions regarding access to National Park System units in Alaska, including use of snowmachines, motorboats, nonmotorized surface transportation, aircraft, as well as off-road vehicle use, have been established in 43 CFR § 36.11 Special Access.
